26 acres of beautiful landscape...

The Wolseley Centre is the headquarters for Staffordshire Wildlife Trust and is set in 26 acres full of interesting features and wildlife-friendly display gardens, all on the site of the former ancestral home of the Wolseley family.

The site has a number of easily accessible walks taking in our three lakes, riverside, natural habitats, as well as providing outdoor seating areas around the grounds. Our boardwalk offers views over tranquil pools and across the River Trent and beyond, whilst our bird hide allows visitors the opportunity to spot visiting wildlife.

Our friendly and welcoming visitor centre includes our main conference room, a shop selling nature-inspired products, our new 120 seater Kingfisher cafe offering indoor and outdoor dining and visitor toilets.

We also offer a separate conference facility, at our Gatehouse building, which is situated to the right of our front entrance gate and is ideally suited for smaller meetings and courses.
